The weather is characterized by annual annual precipitation About 30 inches (750 mm), partially derived from the summer monsoon and partly from storms associated with low winter pressure systems. The valleys of the rivers are deeply submerged and desolate, and the faults have produced a series of flood-filled basins, such as those surrounding Udhampur and Punch. A strong earthquake focused on the neighbouring Kashmir administered by Pakistan killed hundreds in the state of Jammu and Kashmir in 2005. The whole region is prone to violent seismic activity, and moderate-to-moderate tremors are common. Geologically complex and topographically immense, the great Himalayas contain ranges with numerous peaks reaching 20,000 feet (6,100 meters) or more, among which are deep-seated remote valleys. Precipitation increases with elevation, and the lower scrub gives way to the pine forests above. The territory of the Union is part of the largest region of Kashmir, which has been the subject of dispute between India, Pakistan and China since the partition of the subcontinent in 1947. The legislation adopted in August 2019 prepared the stage to degrade Jammu and Kashmir from the state of the state, to the status of territory of the Union and to divide a part of it, known as the Ladakh region, into a separate territory of the Union. Precipitation is low, which amounts to approximately 15 to 20 inches (300 to 500 mm) per year, and occurs mainly in the form of heavy but rare rains during the summer monsoon (June to September). The conditions of the soil and water vary throughout the valley. Jammu and Kashmir contain only a small section of the Great Himalayas, but the highest summit in the Union Territory, in Bharanar in the Kishtwar district, still manages an impressive elevation of 21,500 feet (6,550 meters). The administrative capitals are Srinagar in summer/Jammu in winter. The field has been almost completely nude of trees, and the thick scrub and grass are the dominant forms of vegetation. Shut up.
